Try DOM's New Livestreaming

Tools in the Open Media Lab This Month!

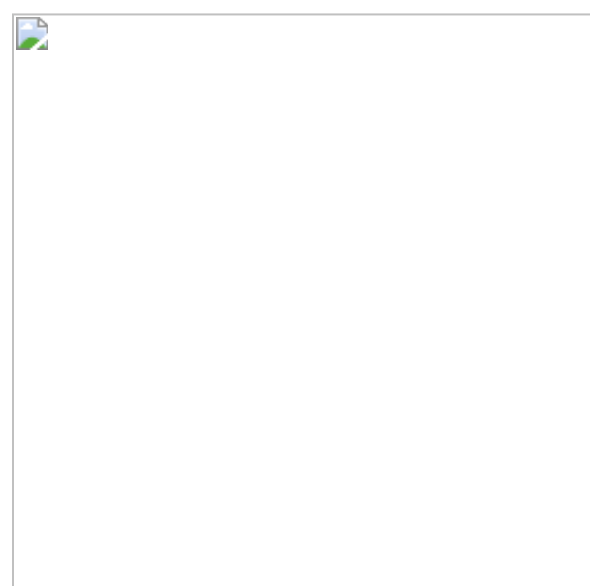

Join us in the Learning Lab on the third Wednesday of every month for the Open Media Lab. This month Denver Open Media staff will be sharing several exciting new tools for Livestreaming, including the Mevo Live Event Cameras, using OMF's open.media streaming/archiving tool, and a review of setting up livestreams on YouTube and Facebook! We will also cover how to set up time to go live on DOM's TV channels and radio via YouTube from literally anywhere with a good internet connection.

Mevos and Chromebooks

Chromebooks now free for members! These portable laptops are super fast and ideal for research, create rundowns, or organizing your crew. Check out a Chromebook when you plan your next shoot.

Stream live to Facebook and YouTube with the Mevo Live Event Camera. Control the camera and shots using an app on your smartphone or tablet. The Mevo can be programmed to track particular people so you don't have to worry about adjusting the camera to follow your subjects. Get a Mevo Live Event Camera and see the difference it makes in livestreaming!
