High Country News Seeking Fellows

High Country News, an award-winning magazine covering the communities and environment of the Western United States, is seeking applicants for two fellowships - one focusing on climate change and the other centered on reporting in rural communities.

These career opportunities are being publicized through a partnership with the Open Media Career Engine, an Open Media project working to increase diversity in Colorado's media industry.

The Open Media Career Engine is powered by the hard work of our AmeriCorps VISTAs.

Colorado General Assembly Back in Session

The Colorado General Assembly is back in session, after a month-long hiatus for COVID. Live coverage of the House and Senate can be viewed on the Colorado Channel, which employs the Open Media government transparency software-as-a-service.

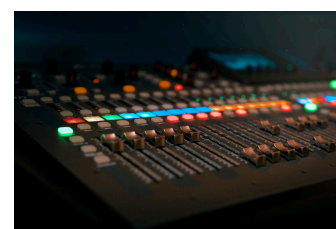

The Open Media SaaS leverages YouTube and allows viewers to search agenda items and video captions by topic, as well as links to relevant documents.
